Urban Health Incubator Launch May 18, 2018

The Urban Health Incubator is the place where stakeholders from research, policy and practice engage to improve the natural and built environment and its impact on health and human development.

Join special guest Professor Louise Potvin for an engaging master class on:

Research in and for urban planning and healthy urban development: what evidence is there, and how to progress our work?

Professor Louise Potvin is a leading global scholar; Université de Montréal; Scientific Vice-President of the International Union for Health Promotion and Education; Director of the University of Montreal Public Health Research Institute; recently winner of the prestigious Acfas Pierre-Dansereau Award for Social Engagement.

Louise Potvin has recently led a major research effort on 4 systematic reviews (food; social environment; transportation; housing) to determine where best to invest scarce resources to gain maximum health and human development returns.
